

Day Dispatches.

The Sioux Sun Dance—Testing the Game Qualities of Warriors.

ROBERT ARNEY, Dakota, July 25.—The special annual Sun Dance of the Sioux Indians occurred yesterday afternoon at camp near that agency, about 1000 savages being present from all parts of the reservation and also a number of white visitors. Fifteen warriors entered the dance after having fasted four days before entering upon their duties. They were all fully armed according to the usages of the tribe in testing the game qualities of the participants. It is probable that this will be the last time the Sun Dance will be permitted, as strong efforts will be made to have the Government interfere the barbarous custom.

Women Spill a Prize Fight.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 25.—A desperate prize fight for five hundred dollars was fought near Nanticoke last evening. The principals were Paddy O'Brien, a saloon keeper, and Mike Beggs, the men fought according to the rules of the Marquis of Queensberry. Eleven rounds were fought when a crowd of women broke in and the prize was forfeited.

Shot and Mortally Wounded.

CHICAGO, July 25.—A private watchman, shot and mortally wounded by Frank Franks, a boy 13 years old, last evening, and gave an account that the boy was in too close proximity to a railroad car containing watchmen. The watchman was under arrest.

Cable Road Patent.

PHILADELPHIA, July 25.—A cable railway company of California has filed a bill of equity against the Union Passenger Railway Company of this city, asking for an injunction restraining the use of patented improvements in the cable road, to which the latter company claims to be solely entitled. It also asks for damages.

MORGAN'S MEN.

Remission of Confederate Horse—Tulsa, Okla., July 25.—The remission of John Morgan's Confederate command is now in progress there. Several hundred members of that notable force are now in camp in tents furnished by the War Department. Jefferson Davis was invited to send a letter saying that it had been prevented him from attempting the fatigue of so long a journey and the excitement of so joyous an occasion. He continued: "The name of your association is eloquently commemorative of daring deeds performed; of the valorous and barbarous indignities inflicted on men who had braved and struggled in an unequal combat to vindicate the rights of their fatherland. It is the duty of the nation to honor the memory of those who have sacrificed for the cause of the South. I am among the guests. Addresses were made yesterday by Frank Walters, Gen. Preston, Gen. Duane, ex-Gov. McCreary, Gen. Jno. S. Dixie, and others. At night, Rev. W. H. Jones, of Richmond, gave a lecture on the Boys in Gray. The reunion continues to-day.

IN FOREIGN LANDS.

Great Increase of Mexican Mail.

LAREDO, July 25.—The Mexican mail has so increased lately that it is necessary now, in order to properly dispatch it, to close the Laredo postoffice two hours in the middle of the day.

Two Emperors Meet.

VIENNA, July 25.—The Emperor of Germany and the Emperor of Austria will meet at Ischl, not at Gastein, where it has long been understood that they would confer. The Emperor of Austria will leave Vienna for Ischl.

The Chosen in Egypt.

LONDON, July 25.—It is reported that quarantine has been enforced against all vessels arriving from ports infected with cholera. A dispatch to the Times says that the number of deaths from cholera at Maspoula yesterday were 13, at Chibin 13, at Tash 16, at Suez 16, at Cairo within twelve hours.

A Fight Between English and French.

CATRO, July 25.—It is rumored that an affray took place yesterday between English and French marines, and that several were killed and wounded.

New York, July 25.—Sterling bills on London, 60 days, $4.84; sterling bills on London, sight drafts, $4.87; U. S. 4 1/2% of 1891, interest quarterly, $1.12; U. S. 4% of 1897, interest quarterly, $1.18; U. S. 3 1/2% of 1898, interest $1.01; U. S. 3% of 1893, interest $1.01.

Sporting Events in Boston.

BOSTON, July 23.—The rifle match on Sunday between William Noonan and Frank Carroll, for $100 a side, at 200 yards, was won by Noonan by 80 to 84. About $2000 changed hands on the result. The wrestling match this afternoon, between Joseph Smith and Rod McInnis, for $200 a side, catch as catch can, was won by the former in two straight falls. Farnsworth gained the first fall in the first round. McInnis won on the defensive entirely. The match lasted nearly an hour.

The President at Cape May.

CAPE MAY, July 24.—President Arthur and party arrived to-day in the United States steamer Dispatch, and after a rest and lunch, the President and his friends took a drive along the beach, and in the afternoon held a reception at the hotel. There was later a military review and garden party.

A New Competition for the Western States.

PHILADELPHIA, July 25.—Pulley, of 138 South Delaware avenue, this afternoon began five civil suits against the Western Union Telegraph Company for refusing to transmit messages for him under the ordinary private conditions. Pulley appeared before a magistrate this afternoon and had suits issued returnable on Monday. The processes will be served on Superintendent Gooden this afternoon.

THE NEXT PRESIDENCY.

Elsewhere on this page we reproduce the essential points of the New York Times' recent comprehensive forecast of the next Presidential campaign—a compilation of facts and opinions that has attracted wide attention, and is certainly of interest, no matter what may be thought of the correctness of the prognostications in some cases.

The list of possible Presidential candidates in each of the great political parties is a formidable one—forty-one in the Republican party and forty in the Democratic party.

A scrutiny of the lists, however, shows that there is a good deal of "stuffing" in them; that the greater number of the names in each appear to have been placed there for no better purpose than to swell the column, for certainly most of them are not even among the possibilities—they are in substantially no danger at all of being struck by Presidential lightning.

Thus, taking up the formidable array of Republican names, we check off the following as obviously out of the question for the Presidential nomination, if we measure right the active hold they appear to have on the party and the country; not denying, however, that there is good Presidential timber among them, only they lack the essential quality of availability: Adams, Allison, Conger, Conkling, Crook, Cullom, David Davis, Evans, Fairchild, Foraker, Foster, Gresham, Hale, Hawley, Hoyt, Kasson, Low, McVeigh, Samuel P. Miller, Oglesby, Phelps, Porter, Potts, Baum, Seward, Sheridan, John Sherman, Teller—29.

This leaves twelve of the forty-one as among the possibilities, which we name in the order of their probable strength at this time, as it appears to us, viz: Blaine, Edmunds, Grant, Washburne, Lincoln, Logan, Arthur, Harrison, Wilson, Windom, W. T. Sherman and Frelinghuysen—12.

Of this number of possible nominees it is reasonably safe to say that five—Grant, Washburne, Harrison, W. T. Sherman and Frelinghuysen—can be classed as not among the probable nominees, for the reason, if for no other, that they have each, at one time or another, announced themselves as not Presidential candidates. These five names being eliminated, there are left as available and probable candidates, Blaine, Arthur, Edmunds, Lincoln, Logan, Wilson and Windom—7.

When the test comes in the convention we predict that the apparent popularity of Arthur will melt away, because it is not the demands of the hour require—a people's man. Logan has aroused antagonisms in the party which will destroy his chances; Wilson and Windom have no very powerful hold on the country. This reduces the long list of forty-one possible candidates to three men—Blaine, Edmunds and Lincoln. Between these, in our opinion, the contest lies, with this one important proviso, namely, that if General William Tecumseh Sherman consents to the use of his name (which he has pointedly refused) he will sweep the convention and the country with a hurricane of popular enthusiasm, and be the next President.

Coming down to the Democratic column, we think we can safely rub off from the list of forty possible candidates all save about eight, as follows: Tilden, Randall, Thurman, Payne, Palmer, McDonald, Jewett, and David Davis, (happy thought!) The rest of the fellows on the list, thirty-two in number, either have no following to warrant the belief that any of them can carry the convention and the country, or else objections to them exist in their own party which render their nomination impossible.

Of the above eight probable Democratic candidates, not more than one-half can be considered as really formidable, to wit: Tilden, Randall, Thurman and McDonald. The latter will suffer from the antagonism of Hendricks of his own State, leaving the real contest between Tilden, Randall and Thurman, each representing a State which it is of the utmost importance to the Democracy that they carry in order to elect their man, but all of which States are reasonably sure for the Republicans if they act wisely and hit the political nail square on the head in making their platform and candidate.

The whole business, however, may be knocked endways, "galley west and crooked," as it were, by the appearance of the inevitable dark horse who is wont to come in, converting into the political ring at the last moment the opportunity (or inopportune, as the case may be) moment.

THE CONTEST IN 1884.

Presidential Preferences Among People of Both Parties.

Result of Inquiry in Nearly 500 Places—Blaine the Favorite Among Republicans—Tilden Leads Among Democrats.

The New York Times of the 16th inst. published a comprehensive forecast of the next Presidential campaign. It occupies seven and a half pages of the paper, and presents all shades of opinion, from which most careful and accurate probabilities are deduced. So much comment has been made upon this article that we reproduce, for the information of the readers of the Los Angeles Times, its main points.

Early in June the Times sent out letters to over 400 points in the several States of the Union, asking answers to the following questions:

1. Who is most frequently spoken of by Republicans in your vicinity as their first choice for Presidential candidate in 1888?

2. What other names are mentioned?

3. Who is most frequently mentioned by Democrats in your neighborhood as their first choice for Presidential candidate in 1888?

4. What other names are mentioned, in about what order as indicating their popularity?

The Times says that answers have been received from 344 of these points, the number varying from forty-four in New York to one in Nevada, or an average of nine from each State. The attempt has been made to obtain the preferences of the people—the voters—rather than the choice of the workers of political machinery, and the reading of the letters will show how carefully the correspondents of the Times have followed this plan, while not without the efforts of the voters to create preferences for their personal favorites. The information has been gathered by trustworthy men of both parties, whose interests obligate them to keep thoroughly informed in political matters, and their reports show that they have made personal canvasses in order to present the drift of opinion. That they have given it as they found it is proved by the fact that in many instances the showing was not in accord with their own personal preferences. The result as given may be trusted, therefore, as accurately outlining the present desires of the members of the two great parties.

Tables are given that show the relative standing of the more prominent candidates of both parties.

The following are the totals, showing the relative strength by States of the various Republican candidates:

Blaine, 103; Arthur, 64; Edmunds, 57; Gen. Grant, 19; John Sherman, 17; Logan, 14; Lincoln, 13; Harrison, 12; W. T. Sherman, 11; Hawley, 10; Sheridan, 10; Folger, 10; Windom, 10; no expression, 20.

The above list does not by any means comprise all the Presidential candidates in the Republican party. The attention of the party is now directed toward the following Presidential candidates, forty-one in number:

Adams, Charles Francis, Jr., Massachusetts.

Allison, William, Iowa.

Arthur, Chester A., New York.

Blaine, James G., Maine.

Conger, Omar D., Michigan.

Conkling, Roscoe, New York.

Crook, Gen. Geo., Ohio.

Cullom, Shelby M., Illinois.

Davis, David, Illinois.

Edmunds, George F., Vermont.

Evarts, William M., New York.

Fairchild, Lucius, Wisconsin.

Foraker, Joseph B., Ohio.

Foster, Frederick A., New Jersey.

Hawley, Green B., Illinois.

Hoyt, Clarence, New York.

Kasson, Philip H., Ohio.

Lincoln, Robert T., Illinois.

Logan, John A., Illinois.

Low, Seth, New York.

McVeigh, Wayne, Pennsylvania.

Miller, Samuel F., Iowa.

Oglesby, Richard J., Illinois.

Phelps, William Walter, New Jersey.

Porter, Albert G., Indiana.

Potts, Frederick A., New Jersey.

Raum, Green B., Illinois.

Seward, Clarence, New York.

Sheridan, Philip H., Ohio.

Sherman, John, Ohio.

Sherman, General W. T., Ohio.

Teller, Henry M., Colorado.

Washburne, Elisha B., Illinois.

Wilson, James H., New York.

Windom, William, Minnesota.

Of these eighteen are mentioned in various sections of the thirty-eight States as the first choice of the Republicans. Mr. Blaine, however, is head and shoulders in front of the others, being named as the preference at 104 points, nearly one-third of the number of points where a choice is expressed. Apart from his own State, he finds most favor in the Middle and Western States, nearly all the great Republican States, and his strength is probably greater than is thus indicated, as in many instances a preference is expressed for others in the belief that he will not enter the race.

President Arthur is next in strength, and his friends are pretty evenly distributed throughout the country, and the favorable feeling toward him is almost everywhere reported as increasing constantly. In the South the Republicans are noted as, of course, in his interest. It is clearly shown in the letters from the South that a large part of, or indeed, the entire vote of that part of the country, will be cast in the National Convention for Chester A. Arthur. There is no reasonable doubt to be entertained at present that the 300 votes of the old slaveholding States will be given to the present incumbent of the Presidential chair. Mr. Blaine and every other candidate must face this solid fact.

Third in the contest is Mr. Edmunds, and not much behind Mr. Arthur. His strength also is very evenly distributed in the different States, and the expression in his favor, perhaps more than in any other case, appears to be spontaneous and genuine, entirely to his merits. He is stronger, indeed, as a second choice than as a first, and leads the other candidates when this question is considered. These three gentlemen received the vote of 224 of the 344 places which express a preference—Blaine 103, Arthur 97, Edmunds 97.

Robert T. Lincoln stands pre-eminently among the new candidates, only three, Gen. Grant, John Sherman and W. T. Sherman, coming between him and the leaders. He is everywhere kindly spoken of, and his ability and honored name make him regarded as a good man for the office. The possibility of his selection is rarely left out of the discussions.

The number of aspirants for the Democratic nomination is forty, and their names are as follows:

Bayard, Thomas F., Delaware.

Blaine, Jere S., Pennsylvania.

Brown, Joseph E., Georgia.

Butler, Benjamin F., Massachusetts.

Carlisle, John G., Kentucky.

Cleveland, Grover, New York.

Cox, Samuel S., New York.

Dana, Charles A., New York.

Davis, David, Illinois.

Edison, Wm. W., Connecticut.

English, Wm. B., Indiana.

Field, Stephen J., California.

Flower, Rowell F., New York.

Hancock, Winfield S., New York.

Harrison, Carter E., Illinois.

Wallace, William A., Pennsylvania.

Whitebeck, William F., Illinois.

Following are the totals of the choice of all the States for the various Democratic candidates for whom preferences were expressed in the answers to inquiries sent out: Tilden, 130; McDonald, 73; Bayard, 51; Sherman, 39; Grant, 30; Harrison, 17; Cleveland, 11; Randall, 5; Fowler, 5; Hoadly, 4; Morrison, 3; Parker, 2; Hewitt, 2; Hendricks, 1; Jewett, 1; Seymour, 1; English, 1; no expression, 20.

Eighteen of the forty stand forth as claimants of the first choice. Perhaps it is because of the sentiment of justice so often heard from Democratic lips: perhaps it is because of the historical "star" whatever the cause, however, Samuel J. Tilden leads his party even more markedly than Blaine leads in the Republican feeling. Two-fifths of the party are reporting him as first choice, and his strength, again, like that of Blaine, would have been increased if he had come out promptly and demanded the nomination. It is not always the "old ticket" however, as Hendricks seems to have fallen into disfavor in some quarters. The next best man to Tilden, which give Tilden no favor, and there appears little doubt at present that he can be the nominee if he desires.

McDonald occupies the seventh position to the latter's 120. Geographical considerations, the eastern and extreme western states alone disfavor him, and these he has displaced mainly by Butler, Bayard and Thurman. He makes a very strong showing as second choice. Apparently he is looked upon as the next best man to Tilden.

Bayard has a meagre following, 51 points, and apparently a hopeless one, judging from the talk of big game. With much of them he has a Democratic bias, but he has a strong following in the New England States, and a quadrilateral sacrifice at the altar of friendship.

The aggressive Butler comes next. Massachusetts sustains him, and that is about all there is of him. The sentiment of the Democracy in regard to him is divided, and he is in the midst of the utmost contempt, through respectful and mild astonishment, to alleged genuine admiration.

Thurman is a very modest support, and the field follows. It must be borne in mind, however, in setting up the Democratic standards, that Illinois, Ohio, with an "if" attached to him, looms up ready to smash all states. If he is elected Governor of Ohio, he may lead in the matter of the Democratic nomination; but for the present, therefore, he is a conditional candidate.

Forrest Us. "A Democrat," in a letter to a friend in Solano county, says:

You know that I am not a railroad man, but my brother Democrat says, "Oh, well, this is a Democratic measure, and he that is not with us is against us." This is the rock on which I am sure that the party is not split in twain by the United-for-howl of a hungry camp-followers for a reduction of fares and freights, I have made a mistake in my calculations."

A Flabby Failure. From the Washington Post.

"The whole weight of the administration has been thrown upon the shoulders of the showing it makes in Gen. Charles's feeble apology for a party in Mississippi. It is a flat and flabby failure."

David Davis will do his bathing in the ocean. The Philadelphia News says he ordered a bath-tub last week, but the plumber after taking his measure, advised him to give up the idea and go to the seashore once a week.

THE CONTEST IN 1884.

Presidential Preferences Among People of Both Parties.

Result of Inquiry in Nearly 500 Places—Blaine the Favorite Among Republicans—Tilden Leads Among Democrats.

The New York Times of the 16th inst. published a comprehensive forecast of the next Presidential campaign. It occupies seven and a half pages of the paper, and presents all shades of opinion, from which most careful and accurate probabilities are deduced. So much comment has been made upon this article that we reproduce, for the information of the readers of the Los Angeles Times, its main points.

Early in June the Times sent out letters to over 400 points in the several States of the Union, asking answers to the following questions:

1. Who is most frequently spoken of by Republicans in your vicinity as their first choice for Presidential candidate in 1888?

2. What other names are mentioned?

3. Who is most frequently mentioned by Democrats in your neighborhood as their first choice for Presidential candidate in 1888?

4. What other names are mentioned, in about what order as indicating their popularity?

The Times says that answers have been received from 344 of these points, the number varying from forty-four in New York to one in Nevada, or an average of nine from each State. The attempt has been made to obtain the preferences of the people—the voters—rather than the choice of the workers of political machinery, and the reading of the letters will show how carefully the correspondents of the Times have followed this plan, while not without the efforts of the voters to create preferences for their personal favorites. The information has been gathered by trustworthy men of both parties, whose interests obligate them to keep thoroughly informed in political matters, and their reports show that they have made personal canvasses in order to present the drift of opinion. That they have given it as they found it is proved by the fact that in many instances the showing was not in accord with their own personal preferences. The result as given may be trusted, therefore, as accurately outlining the present desires of the members of the two great parties.

Tables are given that show the relative standing of the more prominent candidates of both parties.

The following are the totals, showing the relative strength by States of the various Republican candidates:

Blaine, 103; Arthur, 64; Edmunds, 57; Gen. Grant, 19; John Sherman, 17; Logan, 14; Lincoln, 13; Harrison, 12; W. T. Sherman, 11; Hawley, 10; Sheridan, 10; Folger, 10; Windom, 10; no expression, 20.

The above list does not by any means comprise all the Presidential candidates in the Republican party. The attention of the party is now directed toward the following Presidential candidates, forty-one in number:

Adams, Charles Francis, Jr., Massachusetts.

Allison, William, Iowa.

Arthur, Chester A., New York.

Blaine, James G., Maine.

Conger, Omar D., Michigan.

Conkling, Roscoe, New York.

Crook, Gen. Geo., Ohio.

Cullom, Shelby M., Illinois.

Davis, David, Illinois.

Edmunds, George F., Vermont.

Evarts, William M., New York.

Fairchild, Lucius, Wisconsin.

Foraker, Joseph B., Ohio.

Foster, Frederick A., New Jersey.

Hawley, Green B., Illinois.

Hoyt, Clarence, New York.

Kasson, Philip H., Ohio.

Lincoln, Robert T., Illinois.

Logan, John A., Illinois.

Low, Seth, New York.

McVeigh, Wayne, Pennsylvania.

Miller, Samuel F., Iowa.

Oglesby, Richard J., Illinois.

Phelps, William Walter, New Jersey.

Porter, Albert G., Indiana.

Potts, Frederick A., New Jersey.

Raum, Green B., Illinois.

Seward, Clarence, New York.

Sheridan, Philip H., Ohio.

Sherman, John, Ohio.

Sherman, General W. T., Ohio.

Teller, Henry M., Colorado.

Washburne, Elisha B., Illinois.

Wilson, James H., New York.

Windom, William, Minnesota.

Of these eighteen are mentioned in various sections of the thirty-eight States as the first choice of the Republicans. Mr. Blaine, however, is head and shoulders in front of the others, being named as the preference at 104 points, nearly one-third of the number of points where a choice is expressed. Apart from his own State, he finds most favor in the Middle and Western States, nearly all the great Republican States, and his strength is probably greater than is thus indicated, as in many instances a preference is expressed for others in the belief that he will not enter the race.

President Arthur is next in strength, and his friends are pretty evenly distributed throughout the country, and the favorable feeling toward him is almost everywhere reported as increasing constantly. In the South the Republicans are noted as, of course, in his interest. It is clearly shown in the letters from the South that a large part of, or indeed, the entire vote of that part of the country, will be cast in the National Convention for Chester A. Arthur. There is no reasonable doubt to be entertained at present that the 300 votes of the old slaveholding States will be given to the present incumbent of the Presidential chair. Mr. Blaine and every other candidate must face this solid fact.

Third in the contest is Mr. Edmunds, and not much behind Mr. Arthur. His strength also is very evenly distributed in the different States, and the expression in his favor, perhaps more than in any other case, appears to be spontaneous and genuine, entirely to his merits. He is stronger, indeed, as a second choice than as a first, and leads the other candidates when this question is considered. These three gentlemen received the vote of 224 of the 344 places which express a preference—Blaine 103, Arthur 97, Edmunds 97.

Robert T. Lincoln stands pre-eminently among the new candidates, only three, Gen. Grant, John Sherman and W. T. Sherman, coming between him and the leaders. He is everywhere kindly spoken of, and his ability and honored name make him regarded as a good man for the office. The possibility of his selection is rarely left out of the discussions.

The number of aspirants for the Democratic nomination is forty, and their names are as follows:

Bayard, Thomas F., Delaware.

Blaine, Jere S., Pennsylvania.

Brown, Joseph E., Georgia.

.....OF.....

Water Analysis.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 18, 1882.
For Mr. Victor Beaudry, Los Angeles:
I have carefully analyzed the sample of water—marked as under—and find the following be the proportions in every 100 parts :

[Mark of sample, Los Angeles.]
Solid residue, 29.16 grains per United States gallon.
Chlorine, 2.39 grains per United States gallon.
Ammonia (free and combined), .085 milligram per litre.
Albuminoid ammonia, .12 milligram per litre.
The water does not indicate the presence of a injurious ingredient in abnormal quantities, a is a good quality of water for dietary purposes.
It is free from any sewage contamination.
Respectfully submitted

WATER SUPPLY.
These lots are supplied by the purest water, as may be seen by the analysis published above. The present capacity of the pumping machinery is 75,000 gallons per hour, or 1,875,000 in twenty-four hours.

The source of supply is inexhaustible. During last winter I laid 4000 feet of 8-inch cast-iron pipe. And I have just completed the laying of 4200 feet more of 8 and 12-inch cast iron pipe, and in a few weeks I will commence the laying of 4000 feet more of 8-inch and 12-inch pipe; also, will lay smaller sizes in considerable quantity, as they may be required.

ALSO,

1000 acres of best vineyard land, requiring no irrigation, in the San Rafael Rancho, on four miles from the city. Price, $50 to $60 per acre.

Also 700 acres hill land at $3 to $10 per acre, apply to COULTER'S.

Encourage home production, especially when you get the best goods and save money at the same time. B. F. Coulter, sole owner of the Los Angeles Woolen Mills, keeps a full line of the purest Southern California Wool, noted for its soft texture and durable qualities, at lower prices than inferior goods are held at.

A Few Words to Gentlemen.

'We are taking morphine for Devlin's celebrated counter-made suits than ever before. His prices have been reduced. No better fitting garments are to be obtained. Come and see our samples. Select the kind you want and we will guarantee satisfaction in every respect, or no sale.

The COULTER SHIRT is giving perfect satisfaction, and is undoubtedly without a rival on the coast. Men are paying high prices for shirts made to order, that are no better in any respect than those we are selling at very low prices. The "Coulter Shirts" are manufactured expressly to my order. Call and see them.

B. F. COULTER.
